

Scalifyx Co — The Complete 2025-2026 AI Agency Service Menu

TL;DR

- Build a 3-tier productized service catalog (32+ services across 8 categories) priced in USD with AED equivalents, anchored on monthly retainers of $2,500 (Starter) / $6,500 (Growth) / $12,000–$25,000 (Scale), plus one-time builds of $2,500–$25,000 — these ranges mirror the 2026 AI-agency market, where Digital Agency Network's "AI Agency Pricing Guide 2026" benchmarks "AI SEO services average $3,200/month, with retainers ranging from $2,000 to $20,000+" and "AI automation builds typically cost $2,500 to $15,000+, with ongoing monitoring retainers from $500 to $5,000+."

Digital Agency Network

Digital Agency Network

- Lead with five high-margin "anchor" services that AI does meaningfully better than humans: AI Voice Agents (per-minute, $0.07–$0.50), AI Chatbot / Customer Service builds ($1.5K–$50K + $300–$5K/mo), AI Lead Gen & Cold Email systems ($2K–$15K/mo), AI Workflow Automation on n8n / Make ($1,500–$15K build + $500–$5K retainer), and AI UGC / Short-Form Video Ads ($99–$5K/mo). These are where Scalifyx's Dubai positioning (AED billing, Arabic + Gulf-dialect NLP, WhatsApp Business API as a Meta Partner, UAE PDPL fluency) creates a real moat versus generic US/Indian shops.
- Avoid the two biggest 2026 pricing traps: (1) charging hourly — WPP CFO Joanne Wilson confirmed in a Q1 2026 earnings briefing (reported by AdNews) that performance-linked fees now represent "20% to 25% of net sales," stating the shift is "accelerating across both new business and existing client relationships"; (2) bundling AI usage costs into flat retainers without metering — OpenAI's GPT-4 Turbo costs "$0.005 per 1,000 input tokens and $0.015 per 1,000 output tokens ($5.00/$15.00 per 1M)" (PricePerToken.com, March 2026), and Articsledge reports a "customer support chatbot handling 1,000 conversations/day costs approximately $500–$1,500/month in API fees." Always use hybrid pricing: setup fee + retainer + metered overage. AdNews + 2

Key Findings

1. The AI agency market is structurally different from traditional digital agencies. Hashmeta AI's 2025 cost guide states "AI agencies cost 43-77% less than building equivalent in-house teams while delivering 24/7 operations and massive scalability," yet they price 20–50% higher than traditional agencies per Digital Agency Network because their services "justify a premium due to automation, scale, and technical complexity." Translation for Scalifyx: you can charge premium retainers ($3K–$25K) and still undercut the client's alternative of hiring people.

Hashmeta

Digital Agency Network

2. The market has consolidated on three pricing tiers. Per Hashmeta's 2026 guide: "Starter or Foundation packages typically range from $2,500 to $6,000 monthly... Growth or Professional packages... priced between $6,000 and $15,000 monthly... Full-service AI marketing programs... typically start at $8,000 monthly and can exceed $30,000 for enterprise implementations." Scalifyx should mirror this exactly with three flagship bundles. Hashmeta

Hashmeta

3. Productized > custom for an agency under 20 staff. Digital Agency Network: "Productized services (e.g., '10 AI blog posts per week' or 'AI ad optimization monthly') → Easier to scale, more predictable margins · Custom AI projects... → Higher revenue per client, but riskier and harder to scope." Target 80% productized SKUs, 20% custom enterprise work.

4. The Dubai-specific advantage exists but is narrow. It is real for: WhatsApp Business API delivery (Meta Partner status required), Arabic + Gulf-dialect NLP, UAE PDPL compliance, AED invoicing, and same-timezone delivery for GCC clients. It is NOT real for: generic GPT wrappers, English-only content, or anything a US/Indian shop can ship remotely. Price the Dubai premium ONLY on services where the moat is genuine — typically 20–30% above US rates. Local benchmarks: Mrkhan Digital quotes UAE projects at "Starter Package: AED 15,000 – 30,000 (basic chatbot or voice agent) Growth Package: AED 30,000 – 75,000 (multiple automation systems) Enterprise Package: AED 75,000+." Mrkhan Digital

5. AI usage/token costs are the silent margin killer. Articsledge: "LLM API costs range from $200/month for low-volume applications to $5,000+/month for high-throughput enterprise systems." Bake a 30% buffer into every retainer or pass tokens through as a transparent line item.

6. Performance-based pricing is now table-stakes at the enterprise tier. WPP CFO Joanne Wilson's Q1 2026 statement (per AdNews) that 20–25% of WPP's net sales are now performance-linked confirms the structural shift. Smaller agencies that don't offer at least an optional performance tier will lose enterprise deals.

Recommendations — Staged Roadmap for Scalifyx Co

Stage 1 — Launch (Months 0-3): Ship 6 anchor productized services.

1. AI Workflow Automation (n8n builds) — $2,500 build / $750/mo retainer
2. AI Chatbot for WhatsApp + Web — $2,500 build / $500/mo
3. AI Voice Agent (inbound) — $3,500 build / pass-through minutes
4. AI Cold Email Lead Gen — $1,500 setup / $3,000/mo
5. AI UGC Video Ads — $1,500/mo for 30 variants
6. AI SEO / GEO Content Engine — $2,500/mo

Target: 10 retainer clients at average $3,500/mo = $35K MRR by month 6.

Stage 2 — Productize (Months 4–9): Launch the 3-tier Foundation / Growth / Scale packages (services #32–34). Build white-label dashboards layered on Triple Whale and n8n monitoring. Hire your first solutions architect — per Digital Agency Network: "Most early-stage agencies overspend on technical hires before they've secured recurring revenue." Wait until $30K+ MRR.

Digital Agency Network

Stage 3 — Specialize (Months 9–18): Pick ONE vertical (Dubai real estate, GCC hospitality, regional healthcare, or DTC ecommerce) and build a vertical-specific Scalifyx playbook. Dubai has unique strength in real estate and hospitality. Charge a 30–50% vertical premium and require case-study rights in every engagement.

Stage 4 — Custom Agent Practice (Month 12+): Once you have proof-of-concept on the productized side, launch the custom AI agent practice (service #19). Target 4–6 enterprise builds/year at $45K–$120K each (the Agix mid-market benchmark). This becomes Scalifyx's highest-margin line.

Thresholds that change the plan:

- If MRR < $15K by month 6 → drop one anchor service and double down on the one with the shortest sales cycle (typically chatbots or lead gen).
- If 60%+ of inbound leads ask for custom builds → skip Stage 2 productization, jump to Stage 4 with higher prices.
- If you can't hire Arabic-NLP talent in Dubai within 6 months → kill the WhatsApp/Arabic-moat services and reposition as English-only global agency (you lose the 20–30% Dubai premium but gain a 100x larger TAM).
- If LLM API costs exceed 25% of revenue on any retainer for two consecutive months → renegotiate or migrate that client to pass-through billing immediately.
- If a single anchor service hits 40%+ of revenue → over-concentration risk; force-diversify before scaling sales.

Caveats

- Pricing is a moving target. Many quoted figures (e.g., "AI SEO averages $3,200/month") come from agency self-reports via Digital Agency Network — useful as benchmarks but skewed upward because struggling agencies don't publish rate cards. Real-world Dubai SMB clients often negotiate 10–25% below US benchmarks.
- "AI-native" vs. "AI-bolt-on" pricing parity is collapsing. Launch Day Advisors warns of "a dangerous pricing middle where an agency charges premium prices ($20K–$40K) while actually delivering mostly AI output with minimal human curation." Don't be that agency — clients have gotten sharper at sniffing this out. Launch Day Advisors
- The Dubai-specific premium is real but narrow. It applies to WhatsApp Business API, Arabic NLP, UAE PDPL compliance, AED billing, and same-timezone GCC delivery. For English-only SaaS-style services (cold email, SEO, US-targeted ads), Scalifyx is competing globally and should price at US/EU market rates, not Dubai-real-estate-developer rates.

- Some sources are vendor-published. Hashmeta AI, Stackmatix, Articsledge, Snezzi, and Fuel Online publish pricing guides while selling competing services — their figures lean toward "what they wish the market would pay." Cross-referenced ranges in this report use 3+ sources where possible.
- Voice agent and AI agent costs do not always fall over time. A common assumption is that per-minute voice rates are dropping rapidly — but Bland AI's December 2025 restructure (Start: $0.09/min; Scale: $0.11/min) shows some providers are now raising prices on higher tiers as they target enterprise. Lock in pricing carefully — 12-month contracts can leave you over-charging or under-delivering as the market moves in either direction.
- The single biggest margin-killer for new AI agencies in 2026 is unmetered LLM/TTS/STT pass-through. A single power-user client on a voice agent or chatbot can burn $1,500–$5,000/mo in API costs. Never bundle AI usage into a flat retainer without a clear metering clause and overage rate.
- Compliance / regulated industry premium. Hashmeta: "If your business operates in a regulated industry, expect to pay 20-40% premiums for agencies with relevant expertise and compliance infrastructure." Charge this if you have the expertise — refuse the work if you don't, because data-exposure liability under UAE PDPL is severe. (Hashmeta)
- The "AI fractional CMO" framing is largely positioning, not a separate pricing tier. Algocentric and Averi's published rates ($5K–$15K/mo) match generic fractional CMO benchmarks from MarketerHire and Go Fractional. The "AI premium" exists in delivery efficiency, not in higher fees — clients are getting more value at the same price point, not paying more.
- One number to validate locally before publishing this menu externally: the Mrkhan Digital benchmark ("Enterprise Package: AED 75,000+") suggests Dubai SMB ceiling on chatbot/automation projects is roughly USD $20K — below US enterprise ceilings of $50K–$150K. Scalifyx should validate which side of that gap its target clients sit on before committing to the higher-tier pricing in services #13, #19, and #22.
